

Cancer and the New Biology of Water

Why the War on Cancer Has Failed and What That Means for More Effective Prevention and Treatment

Thomas Cowan, MD

Foreword by Zach Bush, MD

Health & Wellness / Alternative Medicine / Cancer

$24.95 USD • $33.95 CAD • £19.99 GBP

Hardcover • 5.375 × 8.375 • 208 pages

ISBN 978-160358-881-2

On-Sale Date: September 24, 2019 (US/CAN)

On-Sale Date: October 24, 2019 (UK)

Media contact:

cbutt@chelseagreen.com

US event contact:

jstewart@chelseagreen.com

UK event contact:

rbaldwin@chelseagreen.com

follow us on f t i p

“Unconventional and compelling . . . This book affirms that the answer to the riddle of cancer is to be found only in nature and natural means of assisting the body in healing itself.”

—NATASHA CAMPBELL-MCBRIDE, MD, author of *Gut and Psychology Syndrome

Nearly fifty years after it was launched, it's become clear that the War on Cancer has failed. Even as new diagnoses continue to skyrocket, so-called scientific advances have not changed how the majority of common cancers are treated (surgery, radiation, chemotherapy), nor have they improved outcomes for the vast majority of patients.

In Cancer and the New Biology of Water, Thomas Cowan, MD, argues that this failure was inevitable because our understanding of cancer is based on a flawed concept of biology in which DNA controls our cellular function and therefore our health. Instead, he tells us, the mutations seen in cancer cells are the result of metabolic dysfunction that deteriorates the structured water that forms the basis of cytoplasmic—and cellular—health. In his new book, Dr. Cowan:

- Analyzes some of the most important and successful natural therapies used for cancer treatment in the past century, including Gerson therapy, cardiac glycosides, medicinal plants, ketogenic diet, and more.
- Presents his theory on the origins of cancer based on the notion that the integrity of the water in our cells and the ways in which that water is structured should be of the utmost concern in addressing the cancer epidemic
- Shares a six-point program (The Cowan Cancer Therapy) that includes advice on: diet, supplements, water, mistletoe therapy, and other interventions
- Offers a scathing look at the cancer screening process

Cancer and the New Biology of Water is the compelling case from a long-time physician that treatments other than the slash and burn approach to cancer merit our attention and research dollars and that patients have the right to information, options, and medical freedom in matters of their own life and death.

To request a review copy or author interview, please contact: Christina Butt (802) 295-6300 ext. 127, or cbutt@chelseagreen.com
Author Availability: San Francisco, or by phone or arrangement

Thomas Cowan, MD, is the author of Vaccines, Autoimmunity, and the Changing Nature of Childhood Illness and Human Heart, Cosmic Heart. Dr. Cowan has served as vice president of the Physicians' Association for Anthroposophic Medicine and is a founding board member of the Weston A. Price Foundation. He is the cofounder of Dr. Cowan's Garden (drcowansgarden.com) and currently practices medicine in San Francisco.

Chelsea Green Publishing is an employee-owned global publishing house with offices in the UK and US, and a leading publisher of books on the politics and practice of sustainable living. Founded in 1984, our books share new ideas on organic farming and gardening, alternative agriculture, green and renewable energy, environmental stewardship and activism, sustainable economy, health and wellness, politics and public policy, and more. Find out more at chelseagreen.com.